PERSONALS.

Capt. W. C. Penn, of Cincinnati, will be among his old friends and customers of West Tennessee, some time next week. Before his return to Cincinnati he will visit all his customers in West Tennessee and North Mississippi. We learn that he did an unusually heavy business this Fall, and is in buoyant spirits. In behalf of his many friends we welcome him to his old home.

A MORAL ATMOSPHERE.

Two editors, one preacher, one constable and a policeman, reside within a stone's throw of each other in a certain quarter of this city. The moral atmosphere in that blessed locality is so thick that it can be cut with a cane knife.

A LITTLE BOY COMES TO GRIEVE.

A little boy of the name of Thomas Hollins of this city fell from a chestnut tree on Monday and broke one of his arms. Boys love chestnuts to get them they will climb trees in climbing trees they will sometimes get falls, etc., but they are hanged if they don't love chestnuts!

A RIDICULOUS SCARE.

On Saturday last a poor way far, with "no where to go," got sick, and in his extremity put up at the courthouse. He had a high fever on him, and at once many kind emotions tongues commenced to whisper "yellow fever." The poor wail, however, got better, and aided by Mayor King, resumed his journey southward, to the regret, doubtless, of that hypocritical class whose chief delight is to look gloom and mystery and cry wolf.

FREE SCHOOLS.

On Monday next, at 10 o'clock, West Tennessee College will be opened for the reception of students. At white male children between the ages of six and twenty-one years will be taught at the branches laid down in the Free School Law, free of charge, and parents in the 15th district are requested to send their children promptly on the opening day, or as soon after as possible. The most experienced and thoroughly competent teachers have been employed, and the determination of the directors to make the school second to none in the State. Arrangements will soon be made to open a school for white girls; one has already been for the colored children of the district.

ODD FELLOWS' COLLEGE.

While in Humboldt on Saturday last, we called upon Prof. G. W. Johnson, President of the Odd Fellows' College of that city. We found the Professor very pleasantly situated and full of confidence in the future of his most promising school. The school was opened with 150 students, and many more are expected to enter this week. are now a favorite resort for Sunday evening pleasure parties. A drive on the speed of the day is a pleasure, and the Sabbath is a day of rest, and is generally observed by them in this city.

THE WORK OF BROKEN LEGS.

Three of our raggedest corners in Jackson, the corners formed by Lafayette and Market streets, were built up by three broken legs. Thus, Mr. Greenback and his leg broke, and then built up the north-east corner. Mr. J. A. Anderson broke his leg, and the corner formed by the street and the street, and then built up the north-east corner. Mr. J. A. A HAUNTED HOUSE.

The Spirit of a Young Girl Returns to Haunt the scenes of Earthly Trouble.

Some time in August last a young girl, sixteen or seventeen years of age, died in a small cottage on South Street. Her name was Goforth, and her parents reside in the North. It seems that her life here was not a happy one, and yet she was a good girl, and was very much loved by her friends. Since her death it is said that her restless spirit returns daily and nightly to the house in which she died. Sometimes a sound of some one wildly weeping, then a merry laugh, and sometimes a low, low wailing cry, is heard from the room in which she died. The house is now a haunted house, and the people who live in it are very much troubled.

A WOMAN AND TWO CHILDREN DROWNED.

On Friday night, 24th inst., a man, his wife and two children stepped into the Mississippi river at Columbus, Ky., while attempting to pass from the wharfboat to the shore. The boat was blown down by the rushing river instead of the gangway, as they expected. A rope was thrown out and the man saved, but the woman who had one child in her arms and the other, a young girl, were never seen after the waves first closed over them.

RELEASED ON BAIL.

On Friday the 20th inst., a motion for a new trial was made by the defendant's counsel in the case of the State against Patrick Joyce, Gen. A. W. Campbell, one of the defendant's counsel, made one of the best legal arguments on the occasion ever delivered in Jackson. It was logical, clear and replete with legal learning. Attorney-General Shefferson pronounced it one of the closest, most pointed and ingenious legal arguments he ever heard. However, the motion for new trial was overruled; also a motion for arrest of judgment. An appeal was then taken to the Supreme Court, and the vexed question of bail elaborately discussed. PERKS OF THE SPEED KING.

An amusing "Dobbin" of this city, who is trotting sulky for the purpose of raising his Buickalus in the speed ring for the coming Fall. He went out to the grounds one day this week to practice, and was accompanied by a large crowd of admiring acquaintances. So soon as the spectators were seated and the timer announced his readiness, the second edition of "Dobbin" drove into the ring, leaving a sulky-like and moved his restless steed to the starting point. At the word "away" they went, making fine time around the ring, although the roughness of the track, which was just being put in condition, caused the driver to make several rather sudden plunges into the air, lighting, however, every time plump in his seat. But instead of checking up after passing the starting point, he dashed on and essayed to display his grace and skill as a "whip." As the crowd began to cheer, he cut a small circle at full speed, when over went the sulky and out went the owner, landing very gracefully on his head, some thirty yards distant, where he went the horse, rearing the sulky to splinters at his leisure. Our hero picked himself up, flung his head carefully, looked around him at his friends, gave one nodding glance at his horse and the remnants of the sulky, and at dawn to pray we presume.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

On Thursday the 20th, near the Memphis and Paducah crossing on the Mississippi Central Railroad, near Mr. W. H. McConnell, Chief Clerk in the Vice President's office at New Orleans, was injured in an accident to a Construction Train, and died on the next day. Mr. McConnell and Mr. James Hall, Cashier of the road, were riding on the pilot of the engine, which was running backward drawing after it a long train of flat and box cars. A cow attempted to cross the track and was struck by the tender of the engine, throwing the tender, engine and four flat-cars off the track, one of the four mounting the pilot, upon which Mr. McConnell was seated, and crushing him. McConnell's right thigh and head, from which he died next morning. Mr. Hall was considerably bruised but not seriously. There were twenty-six persons on train at the time but none were injured but the two mentioned. Mr. McConnell's home was Philadelphia, Pa., where he had a wife and two children. He was held in high esteem by the company in whose service he lost his life, and although a comparative stranger in Jackson has many friends here. Indeed, he was a favorite with all who knew him—kind, affable, unassuming and full of true manliness. His stricken family in their distant Northern home have the deepest sympathy of many Southern hearts.

PROF. McDUFF.

The lectures of this gentleman, inaugurated in Tomlin's Hall on Friday night the 20th, and which have been continued since in the Hall of the Stoughton House, have attracted deserved attention. In Prof. McDuff's lecture announcing his lectures he styles them "Philosophical Lectures," but his theory takes more of Anthropology than of Philosophy. In his lecture on "The Human Mind," he takes the whole man into view, not only the head but the feet, expression and body. His theory is yet undeveloped, but it may become a fixed science which will put all skepticism to flight. He has been very successful in reading all the characters presented to him as subjects, delineating their mental points without placing his hands upon their heads, which is Anthropology rather than Philosophy. A very large class was organized on Friday night, which have been receiving lessons from the Prof. since in the Hall of the Stoughton House. He is certainly a young man of no ordinary ability, and his lectures will prove interesting to all, those who are prejudiced against him as well as those who have faith in the yet undeveloped science of Phrenology and Anthropology.
